- The Summer palace - is actually a good balance of greenery and lakes with buildings and walkways.
- Erawan Elephant Paradise Museum - A huge, three-headed elephant statue standing upon an equally gargantuan pedestal is the first, and last. It's a splendid, towering beast: 250 tons in weight, 29 metres high, 39 metres long, and cast in a pure green-hued copper. From conception to completion it took almost ten years to construct. With a proud, war-like demeanor and trunks the size of ancient Banyan Trees, this is an epic image of Hindu mythology's Airavata (otherwise known as Erawan) you'll never forget.
- Asiatique The Riverfront - is a large open-air night market in Bangkok, Thailand. It is situated in the former docks of the East Asiatic Company, and faces the Chao Phraya River.

KHAO YAI

- Palio - is an Italian-style enclave that's light years from Thailand. The "Italian village" features more than 100 stores and restaurants on pedestrian streets and alleyways that radiate like wheel spokes from the center, Piazza Palio. The developers went out of their way to recreate the feeling of wandering through a small town in Tuscany, complete with a clock tower, baroque-style buildings covered in ivy, a manicured garden, and a replica of the famous Bocca della Verità ("Mouth of Truth") carving in Rome.
- The Jim Thompson farm tours - provides a unique opportunity for visitors to observe up close and personal the full life cycle of the silkworms and the silk farming process as part of the Isan way of life. Other highlights include a tour of the vegetable plots and ornamental plant nursery. A great variety of delicious fresh fruits and organically-grown vegetables come into season at this time of year. In addition to cut flowers and ornamental plants, a selection of fresh, high quality, organic vegetables and fruits and wholesome farm-made snack foods are also available on sale at the farm.
